Castro Regime Takes Over U.S. Mining Industry

Loss of $75-Million
Plant Heightens Fear
Of Other U.S. Owners

HAVANA (AP)—The Castro regime has taken over the Freeport Sulphur Company's 75-million-dollar nickel and cobalt plant in Cuba. The American-owned plant has been idle since March, when the government put a heavy export tax on its output.

Announcement Sunday of government intervention of Freeport's Moa Bay Mining Co. heightened fears in private business circles concerning the fate of 75 million dollars worth of other American mining properties still under private management.

President Osvaldo Dorticos announced the intervention—which can mean anything from token supervision to outright control—but gave no reason. It was expected, however, the government eventually would say it had taken over the plant to protect workers' jobs, claiming the management had abandoned it.

In New York, the Freeport company said it would take all possible steps under Cuban and international law to protect its legal rights.

The action against the Moa Bay company came a week after a government decree nationalizing more than 700 million dollars worth of other American-owned properties in Cuba.

Moa Bay is the largest privately owned mining enterprise in Cuba. Started in 1957, it was not fully completed last March when officials of the company said they could not continue operations because of a new 25 per cent tax on the gross value of the plant's product regardless of income.

Moa Bay employed about 3,200 workers—most of them Cubans. When finished it was to turn out 505 million pounds of nickel and almost 4½ million pounds of cobalt annually.

Chief among the other American-owned mining properties is the Nacero nickel plant, which was built by the U.S. government.

Representatives of the U.S. General Services Administration and the Castro regime are still discussing the sale of the plant to Cuba.

Other American investments still untouched by the Cuban government include an estimated 150 million dollars worth of insurance, pharmaceutical, rubber and aluminum companies.

Kiwanians Will Hear
Convention Reports

Ralph Martin and Charles Merrill, who represented the Salem Kiwanis Club at the Kiwanis International convention in Miami, Fla., will make their official reports when the club meets Thursday night at the Memorial Building.

The Kiwanis' election of officers has been postponed from Aug. 25 to Sept. 1. Gail Herron heads the nominating committee.

Rev. Winn Re-elected Superintendent

The Rev. Harold B. Winn, who will begin his 14th year as pastor of the Salem First Friends Church Sept. 1, the beginning of the church fiscal year, was re-elected superintendent of the Damascus Quarterly Meeting of Friends at sessions held Saturday in the local church.

The Quarterly Meeting comprises 13 area Friends churches. Rev. Winn, who has held this post for nine years, also is active in the Ohio Yearly Meeting, a member of the foreign missionary board and a trustee of Malone College at Canton.

Rev. Winn today announced pastoral changes in four of the area churches, effective Sept. 1. They include Beloit, Lisbon Trinity, Canton and Howland.

Reception to Honor Harold C. England

Mailman 41 Years to Retire

A public reception in honor of Harold C. England, retiring from his job as mail carrier after more than 41 years' service, will be held Sunday, Aug. 28, in McKinley School gymnasium.

England, born in Damascus, April 29, 1896, first entered postal service in Salem as a substitute city carrier June 16, 1919 when George Mounts was still postmaster. On Aug. 1 of the same year he was named a regular carrier and has held that post ever since.

Although he will be missed around the Post Office, England's absence will be most noticed by the residents along his route. England has carried the northeast section of town constantly, with the exception of vacations, for the full 41 years.

He figures he has delivered mail to at least four generations in some cases along the route and possibly to five. His route at the time of his retirement, which will be effective Aug. 31, included E. 3rd St., Cleveland St., N. Union Ave., Highland Ave., Brooklyn Ave., and part of E. 10th St. This required walking an average of nearly 10 miles per day.

In years past, deliveries were made twice a day, bringing his total walking distance in the four decades to somewhere near 175,000 miles. This figure is the equivalent of walking around the world almost seven times. He indicated on leaving the job that his legs were "getting tired."

One of the biggest changes he has noticed in the 41 years is the amount of mail delivered to the door. He said the increase in the periodical field has been tremendous.

He declared he can recall when he carried all of the mail he was to deliver directly from the post office building. In recent years, he said, it has been necessary to install relay boxes along the route, partly due to the great number of magazines, advertising material and papers being mailed.

He also recalls that in the early days, all of the parcel post deliveries were made by horse and buggy.

A veteran of World War I, England says the service gave him his first introduction to handling mail when he was sent from the 29th

Powers' Wife Agrees on Plea

Calls Pilot-Husband
'Scout,' Not Spy

MOSCOW (AP)—Atractived, dark-haired Barbara Powers said Sunday that since it was a matter of record her husband had piloted the ill-fated U2 jet, it was "normal" for him to plead guilty to Soviet charges of espionage.

Mrs. Powers and the mother and father of Francis Gary Powers arrived Saturday for the espionage trial of the American pilot, which begins Wednesday in Moscow. Powers was shot down 1,400 miles inside Soviet territory May 1 while piloting his reconnaissance jet high over the Soviet Union.

Despite her husband's guilty plea, Barbara told a news conference he should not be called a spy.

Convening Clears Way for Committees

House Joins Senate In Pre-Election Session

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House joins the Senate today in returning for a post-convention session of Congress, but many House members are taking another week of vacation—or campaigning.

The Senate, which reconvened a week ago, ratified a 12-nation ant-arcctic treaty and passed a four-billion-dollar public works bill on Wednesday. Since then it has been tied up in debate over a bill to raise the minimum wage and extend its coverage.

The debate continues today, and voting may start Tuesday.

The House agreed in July to come back today, but leaders since have passed the word that no business will be transacted for still another week. Routine meetings, with no scheduled action, were arranged for this week.

The formal convening of the House may, however, clear the way for some committee action, including work by Senate-House committees smoothing out differences between bills passed by the two houses.

No meeting has yet been called of the Rules Committee, which has delayed House consideration of a housing bill and has prevented

Cyclist Hospitalized Following Accident

LISBON—A motorcycle-car accident at 1:20 a. m. Sunday caused injuries to the cyclist, according to Lisbon police.

Police said Edwin Shump, 30, of Sandusky, driving a motorcycle east on Pine St., failed to stop for a stop sign at N. Market St., and was struck by a car operated by William Riddern Jr., 18, of Beaver Falls.

Shump is reported in fairly good condition at Salem City Hospital with lacerations of the head and face, a broken nose and possible head concussions.

He was cited by police for failing to yield the right of way and will have a hearing when he is released from the hospital.

East Palestine Boy Victim as Car Rams Tree

Patrolmen Cite Six
Drivers In Rash of Weekend Accidents

One person is dead and four others hospitalized as a result of 10 traffic accidents which occurred on area highways over the weekend. Six drivers were cited.

Dead is William Doll, 16, of RD 1, East Palestine and Pittsburgh, driver of a car which smashed into a tree just south of Rogers.

The injured are:

Arthur Arnold, 18, of 5320 Camelia Ave., Pittsburgh, a passenger in Doll's car.

Patricia L. Donnelly, 6-year-old daughter of James V. Donnelly, 36, of 4591 Waseka Lane, Youngstown, when she fell from her father's car.

John Hartzell, 25, of 407 Oregon St., Sebring, driver of a car which struck a house on Homeworth Rd., south of Alliance.

Judy Hartzell, 21, of the Sebring address, a passenger in the Hartzell car.

State highway patrolmen at Lisbon said Doll was driving north on Rt. 7 at a high rate of speed at 1:15 a.m. today when he lost control of his car, which veered off the road and crashed into a tree. He was pronounced dead on arrival at Salem City Hospital.

Arnold, his passenger, suffered multiple abrasions of the body and is in fairly good condition in the hospital.

According to patrolmen, the car hit the tree with such force that it was impossible to tow it from the scene. They said the pieces of the auto were loaded onto a truck and hauled away.

Patrolmen said the boys had just left a tavern when the mishap occurred.

A junior in a Pittsburgh high school, Doll was born in Salem on Nov. 1, 1943, a son of Paul Doll of RD 1, East Palestine and Ruth Justison Doll of Pittsburgh.

Employed by Father
He was employed as a bricklayer's helper by his father during the summer months. He was a member of the Church of the Nazarene of East Palestine.

His parents are his only survivors.

The body is at the Oliver Funder, al Home in East Palestine.

The Donnelly child suffered a bruised left arm and a chin cut when she opened the rear door of her father's car and fell out while Donnelly was backing out of a private drive.

Canfield Post state highway patrolmen said the accident occurred just west of Rt. 7 on Rt. 224 at 2 p.m. Sunday. The child was taken

Man to Face First-Degree Murder Charge

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—A first-degree murder charge was to be filed today against Ronald (Sarge) Fenton, 27, of suburban Lakemore. Police say he has admitted he beat and killed a one-year-old baby after a sexual attack.

Summit County Prosecutor John S. Fenton said Fenton will be arraigned in Police Court on a charge of murder—the course of a kidnapping.

Fenton admitted, detectives said, that he snatched little Joanne Starcher from her parents' unlocked apartment in East Akron early last Wednesday.

The parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Starcher, reported their infant daughter missing at 4:30 a.m. Wednesday.

The infant's body was sighted floating on a pond in southern Summit County Thursday night. Then Saturday at noon Fenton walked into the Akron police station.

Laos Neutralist Named Premier

Pro-West Head's
Resignation OK'd

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—King Savang Vachana has agreed to the demands of the military rebels in Laos and named one of the nation's leading neutralists as premier, the rebel command announced today.

Vientiane radio said the King had accepted the resignation of pro-Western Premier Tiao Somsanith and his cabinet and asked Prince Souvanna Phouma, president of the National Assembly and the rebels' nominee for premier, to form a new government.

The rebel leader, Capt. Kong Le, 35, said rebel negotiators in the royal seat of Vientiane, 120 miles north of Vientiane, had informed him of the King's action. He said they planned to return to Vientiane with Somsanith and members of his cabinet, who were promised safety.

Announcement of the King's action was cheered by a crowd of about 3,000 outside the rebel command headquarters.

Kong Le and his forces have dedicated Souvanna Phouma's government to neutralism in the conflict between the West and Communism, expulsion of U. S. and French military advisers, who have been training the 30,000-man royal army, acceptance of aid from any nation that will give it without strings, an end to the war against the pro-Communist Pathet Lao guerrillas and a cease-up of government corruption.

The King's designation of Souvanna Phouma promised to avert the threat of civil war, since government forces had already begun to organize for a drive on Vientiane, the country's administrative capital and the only city taken by Kong Le and about 1,000 troops in a lightning coup last Tuesday.

Somsanith and his cabinet were stranded in the royal capital and unable to launch an immediate counterblow with the scattered units of the royal army, which has been trained, equipped and financed largely by the United States.

Democrats Pick Allmon For Judge

Democratic party chairmen and secretaries of 13 counties from the 7th District Saturday night nominated William T. Allmon of Carrollton for the seat on that district's court of appeals bench, vacant since the death of Elmer T. Phillips.

The selection, made at a meeting in Youngstown, backs Gov. Michael DiSalle who Friday appointed the 39-year-old former Carroll County probate judge and now assistant state welfare director, to fill the post until the November election.

This means that Allmon, slated to be sworn in at Youngstown today, will oppose Paul W. Brown, Youngstown attorney nominated by Republican leaders from the district.

Brown, an unsuccessful candidate for Supreme Court in the May primary, was selected by GOP chiefs Friday.

U.N. Force Ignores Anti-Tshombe Riots

Katanga Police Use Tear Gas On Mobs

(AP) — Police used tear gas today to break up street demonstrations against Katanga Premier Moise Tshombe. U.N. soldiers, pledged to political neutrality, looked on.

The Swedish U.N. force was out on the first day of patrol in Elisabethville after taking over guard duties from Belgian soldiers who had lent support to Tshombe's demands for independence from Premier Patrice Lumumba's central government in Leopoldville.

After arrival of the U.N. force last weekend, Tshombe's police began moving around the city, throwing tear gas bombs whenever large groups refused to disperse. Members of the opposition Cartel party were arrested but later released after paying a fine equivalent to a dollar.

This morning a large crowd of young Africans gathered in Elisabethville's main square in front of the post office.

Police rode up and began throwing tear gas bombs. An armored car rolled into the square.

The U.N. soldiers continued marching on their guard posts, looking off in the distance.

Responsibility for order in Elisabethville, the provincial capital, was officially handed over to the United Nations Sunday by Belgian soldiers in a tearful ceremony. More U.N. soldiers were on their way to replace Belgian forces in the province.

The Belgians were withdrawing from the big military base at Kamina, 300 miles northwest of Elisabethville.

Among the troops heading to Elisabethville under the U.N. banner were Ethiopians flying from Addis Ababa, Mali Federation soldiers traveling by train from neighboring Kivu province, some Moroccans and more Swedes. A U.N. officer said this would bring the total to about three battalions to replace the 4,000 Belgian soldiers whose presence in Katanga has been a major factor in averting a mass flight of the whites who run the rich province's mines and plantations.

The dispatch of African U.N. troops to Katanga was intended to quiet criticism by Congo Premier Patrice Lumumba, who assailed U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld for starting the Katanga operation with white troops instead of Africans.

But the choice of soldiers from Ethiopia, Mali and Moroccans

16 Seek Postmaster Job at N. Waterford

Sixteen applications have been received by the U.S. Civil Service Commission for the position of postmaster at the New Waterford Post Office, according to Earl F. Welch, acting postmaster.

The applicants will be given written examinations later in Youngstown. Those who pass the written exam will be assigned ratings on the basis of this test and their practical experience.

The $4,990 per year position became available with the recent retirement of L. T. Williams, postmaster at New Waterford for 26 years.

Nixon, Kennedy To Visit South

Plan Campaign Trips
According to Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon is getting ready for some quick dashes into the South that will carry him into states seldom visited by Republican presidential candidates.

Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, his Democratic opponent, will start his Southern campaigning by crossing the Potomac River to Alexandria, Va., on Aug. 24.

Nixon already has scheduled a trip Wednesday to Greensboro, N.C. He once was a graduate student at Duke University in Durham, N.C.

Sen. Thurston B. Morton of Kentucky, the Republican national chairman, said he is urging Nixon to make flying trips to Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia and Virginia during the abbreviated session of Congress.

"If he is going to visit all of the states he has got to get going as soon as possible," Morton said.

The GOP chairman said he expects the campaign visits to the Deep South to be one-shot affairs. But he said he thinks Nixon will want to pay return calls to such states as Florida, Texas, North Carolina and Virginia.

Nixon's dates, like those of Kennedy, are all being made contingent on what the Senate is doing at the time. Kennedy doesn't want to get caught short on an important vote. Nixon doesn't want to miss any chance to break a tie vote or to hand down an important ruling as presiding officer.

While some senators have said it will be impossible to get a legislative program through for an adjournment before Labor Day, it is obvious both presidential candidates are pushing hard in that direction.

Kennedy already has announced plans to campaign in Hawaii, accompanied by Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, on a tour starting Sept. 3.

Thursday, 6:30 to 8 p.m., drafting, electronics, body and fender and plant electricity;
Saturday, 8 to 10 a.m., machine trades, foundry and core making.

Echo Helps Scientists Talk Over Telephones

HOLMDEL, N. J. (AP)—Scientists talking across the heavens with the help of the Echo I satellite today held their first conversation with standard telephones.

The latest experiment in bouncing sound waves off America's newest space traveler began at 12:30 a.m. when William Victor, a research consultant on the Echo I project, picked up a telephone in Pasadena, Calif.

Victor telephoned the Jet Propulsion Laboratories in Goldstone, Calif., and asked to be connected to the Bell Telephone Laboratories here via the 10-story aluminum-coated balloon that circles the earth every two hours at a height of 1,000 miles.

The call was plugged into the transmitter and sent via Echo I to Holmdel, from Holmdel to Bell's central switchboard in Middletown and back to Holmdel where it rang a telephone.

The instrument was picked up by William C. Jakes Jr., research director for the Echo project at Holmdel.

"Hello, Bill," Victor said. "How do I sound?"

Jakes told him his voice was coming in loud and clear.

"You sound as if you're only 40 miles away," Victor said.

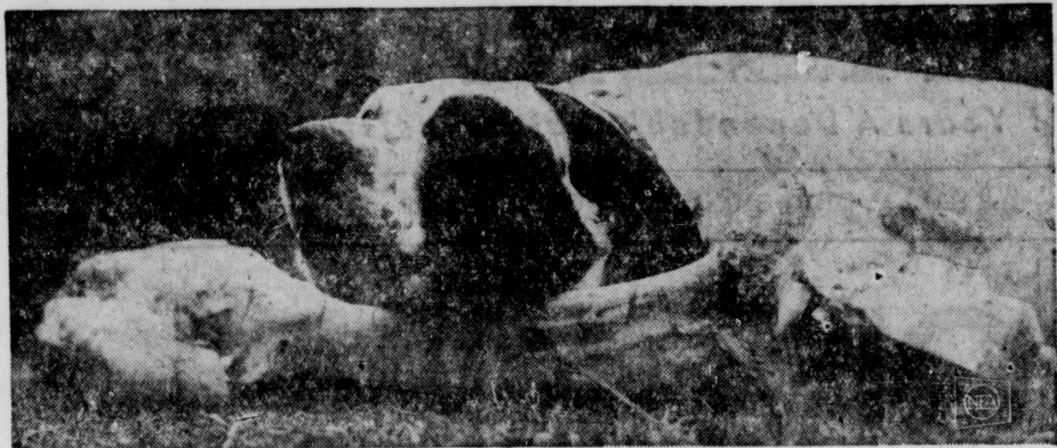

Since Friday, when the balloon was launched into space, scientists at Holmdel and Goldstone have been exploring the different kinds of radio sound waves the shiny aluminum surface can mirror.

Sunday the voice of a scientist at the Naval Research Laboratory, Stump Neck, Md., was bounced off Echo I to Holmdel and hurled back into space for another bounce to Goldstone.

Later Sunday a taped instrumental recording of "America the Beautiful" was similarly sent from Maryland to New Jersey to California. Sunday night two scientists at Goldstone held a four-way conversation with two scientists here.

The laboratories have been transmitting primarily at night because it is easier to spot the balloon.

A conversation can only take place when Echo I is within the horizon of all the points involved.

Vague Idea Still Being Fought

Social Security Act Fills 'General Welfare' Clause

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Social Security Act is just 25 years old but it has taken a long time—most of American history—for the government to accept much responsibility for the individual welfare of its citizens.

The idea is still being fought. The Constitution says "We, the people . . . in order to form a more perfect union . . . promote the general welfare . . . do ordain and establish this Constitution for the United States of America."

What did "general welfare" mean? Did it include the general welfare of individual persons?

James Madison, called the father of the Constitution and one of the signers, said later the welfare clause had no meaning because Congress' powers to provide for the "general welfare" were not spelled out.

Even Charles Beard, American historian, admitted himself baffled on how the words "general welfare" got into the Constitution. So did others.

What developed through most of American history was not concern for the welfare of individuals but the legend of rugged individualism which had its roots in many sources.

For example: the expanding frontier which carried with it the concept of unlimited individual opportunity; the free enterprise economic philosophies of the 18th and 19th centuries; the preachings of Herbert Spencer, the British sociologist who originated "survival of the fittest," which meant the devil take the hindmost.

Through most of American history there was no control on the accumulation of wealth—like the antitrust laws (the first one in 1890) or graduated income taxes (starting in 1913).

But enterprise in America has never been entirely free. The first Congress passed the first Tariff Act to protect American business from the competition of imports.

More recently there have been government subsidies to farmers and businesses of various kinds in the midst of arguments, still going on, against any government interference.

Still, the seeds of government responsibility were planted early in America. The first British settlers brought with them the Elizabehau poor laws under which local communities assumed responsibility for the poor.

Later, states assumed it and, finally, the federal government. In the increasingly complex American society the real problem has always been how to retain a maximum amount of freedom while government control and interference of necessity increase.

But the realization of federal responsibility was a long time in coming.

In 1854 President Franklin Pierce vetoed a bill giving federal lands to states for the benefit of the insane. He said "the welfare clause in the Constitution did not give Congress the right to provide money for the indigent insane nor for any indigent persons."

For more than three-quarters of a century Pierce's veto controlled federal relief policy. In 1887 President Grover Cleveland said, "I do not believe that the power and duty of the general government ought to be expended to the relief of individual suffering, which is in no manner related to public service."

This remained the national attitude until 1933 when, under President Franklin D. Roosevelt, Congress passed the Federal Emergency Relief Act which provided direct grants to states to help relieve unemployment.

Roosevelt said, "It is our plain duty under the welfare clause of the Constitution to provide for that security upon which welfare depends."

The great stride in recognizing federal responsibility in this field was taken Aug. 14, 1935 when Roosevelt signed the Social Security Act into law.

Let's Unlock a Few Old Door Problems Around the House

A lock that doesn't function properly is worse than no lock at all. A little preventive maintenance plus a knowledge of emergency repairs can save you the trouble of climbing through a window some dark night.

A lock that sticks or works sluggishly may need nothing more than lubrication. Lubrication in this case doesn't mean using an oil can or a grease gun. Oil and grease will gum up a lock.

Use Graphite
Use powdered graphite, available in most hardware stores. The graphite is usually packed in a plastic tube. Squeezing the tube will blow the fine powder into the lock.

Another method is to spread a little graphite on the key. Then work the key in and out of the lock a few times to do the job.

Not only the lock tumblers need lubricating. Spread a little graphite on the moveable latch bolt as well.

Proper lubrication will help prevent a lock from freezing in cold weather. Should the lock freeze, heat the key over a flame before inserting it.

Diagnosis
If lubrication doesn't cure a balky lock you will have to remove it. You may find that a spring is broken or that the original grease in the works has become gummy. If the latter is the case the lock can be cleaned in gasoline and lubricated again.

Whether it's a broken part or gummed up works, removing the lock and taking it to a locksmith for repairs may save you the cost of a whole new assembly.

Sometimes the lock isn't at fault at all. If the key moves but the bolt doesn't move then the bolt may be out of line with the striker plate or stuck.

Tightening Hinges
This can happen if the door is not hanging properly and has spoiled the alignment. Tightening the hinges may solve the problem. Otherwise remove the door and re-hang it. Moving the striker plate up or down may help but you may have to mortise out some of the wood behind it.

If you've painted recently, make sure that the bolt isn't paint-stuck.

Bad Break
Make certain that you push the key all the way in each time you use it. Otherwise you may break the key in the lock. If this happens you may be able to continue turning the key by holding the portion in your hand firmly against the piece that's in the lock. If this doesn't work try sliding a crochet hook over the top of the key until you reach the end and then pulling it out.

Using the wrong key may also cause a broken key. If keys for different locks are quite similar mark them by using matching paint colors or numbers on keys and locks.

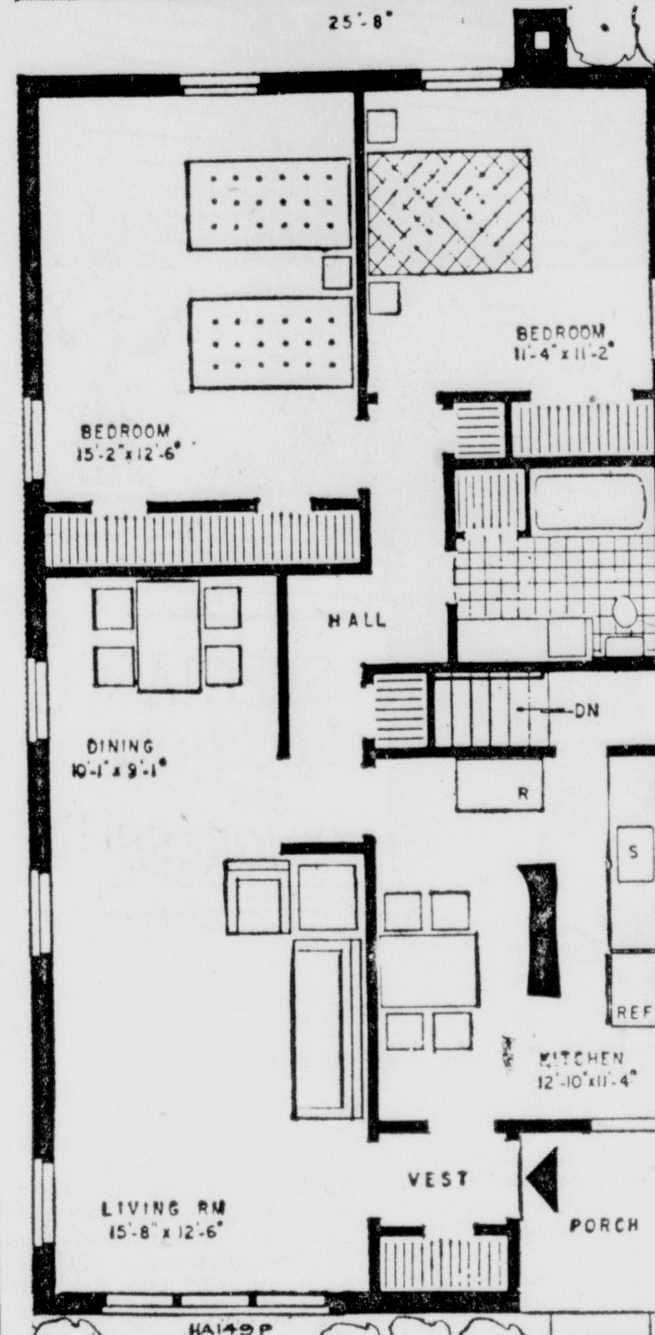

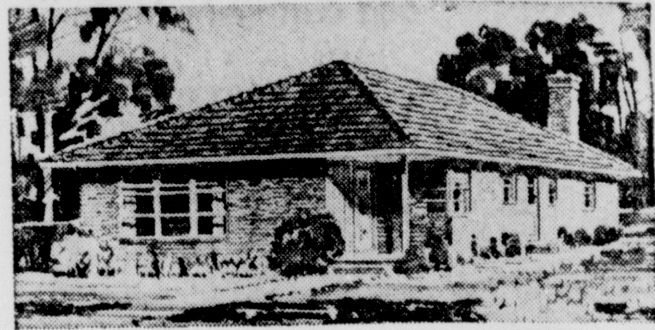

Child's Play House Easy to Construct

If you have a back yard, you have room for a child's play house. And how the little ones love a place where they can play house.

A simple wood deck of one-inch lumber, laid on a frame of 2x8s set on two-foot centers, will provide an adequate floor. The rest of the play house can be simple or elaborate. A roof is a must for shelter from sun and rain and adds to the months the children can play outdoors. Again, a simple shed type of roof, framed with 2x4 rafters, will fill the bill. Use inexpensive shiplap lumber for the roof, then cover with lightweight roofing paper. Douglas fir is ideal for both rafters and roof.

To add more comfort, you can install two or three simple board walls. You will probably want to leave one side open facing the house so you can keep an eye on the children at play. Leave windows on one or more sides.

Scale the play house to the size of the youngsters. You can paint colors which children love.

BUDGET MINDED — Perfect for the newlyweds or retired couples, this home offers maximum livability at minimum cost. The home can be built on a 40-foot wide plot, yet has 1,110 square feet of floor space covering comfortable living and dining areas, eat-in kitchen and two good-sized bedrooms. The plan is HA149P, by Architect Samuel Paul, 89-51 164 St., Jamaica, N. Y.

All-Weather Patio Favorite Feature of Many Houses

A favorite feature of many a modern home is the all-weather patio. With a roof or overhead canopy and walls or windcreens, the protected patio caters to lounge lizards come showers, blow, or broiling sun.

Especially in the early spring when occasional days of balmy temperatures beckon to winter-bound householders is the indoor-outdoor patio a welcome addition to the home. And mothers find it a real boon, for this spot makes an ideal year-around play yard for rambunctious, under-age outdoor enthusiasts.

The smartest patio design is literally indoor-outdoor. Half is protected on three sides by solid walls and a roof; the other half is open to the elements. This plan is highly practical, not only weather-wise, but also because it serves both the sun worshipper and the family member who want to read in a shady outdoor nook.

The all-weather patio should be located where it can share available walls. An L-shaped house, for example, offers two ready-built walls. The L formed by the back of the carport and one side of the house is another good spot. Adding a third wall is no trick at all, but it should match the other stylistically.

Roofing the patio is also a fairly simple job. Most folks merely extend the house roof in an exaggerated overhang to form a canopy for their patio. With exposed beams and decking of a rich wood like Douglas fir, the canopy becomes a handsome piece.

Patio walls are handsome, too, when sided with a lovely and durable wood like Douglas fir. Many homes are sided with tongue and-groove, rough sawn fir which has been installed vertically. In the all-weather patio, this siding style is delightful, giving the effect of fine wall paneling, especially when finished with a light sandwood stain which approximates fir's natural golden hue, or with driftwood stain which introduces the timeless beauty of silvery, weathered wood.

You're always a jump ahead if you think in terms of including storage units when planning the indoor-outdoor patio, for this will prove a perfect spot to keep the portable barbecue, sports equipment, and garden tools. Designing one wall two or three feet in depth will do the trick, and it can be tailored with space-saving commodity a world of hard-to-store items. Cabinet doors should be fashioned in vertical fir siding so that, when closed, they blend perfectly with the wall lines.

Need More Living Space? Why Not Go Outside For It?

Need more living space? Why not go outside for it?

Many homeowners feeling pinched for elbow room are playing it smart by reclaiming the back yard for additional living area.

The idea is neither to pitch a tent under the old elm tree nor to build actual walled-in additions to the house. But to create outdoor extensions of indoor rooms, fashioned for real, most-of-the-year living—there's the trick!

It's easy to do. Needed are a good, solid floor, a roof to control sun and wind, and possibly screening to insure privacy.

First in order is the floor. This should be built at the same level as interior floors so that it literally becomes a continuation of the indoor room. A wood deck of tough lumber like Douglas fir is the favorite because it can be built at any level off the ground — be it four inches or a full story — and because it is easy to construct with simple tools. Only a hammer, nails, saw, and a level are need for the job.

Maintenance is virtually nil on a wood deck, unless a paint finish is chosen. Most householders, however, prefer to install the decking with no finish whatever and let it weather naturally. Fir will take on a lovely silver color in less than a year's time when left to weather.

Deck boards can be any size from 2x4 to 2x6 or 2x8 and should be laid with an eighth inch spacing between them to allow water runoff.

Exaggerating the house roof's overhang is both a dramatic and practical way to roof the outdoor room. Leave the structural posts and beams exposed to capitalize on their decorative impact, and use tongue-and-groove hemlock or fir for the roof decking, leaving it exposed, too.

It's a smart idea to continue one wall of the house out to form a storage wall for the outdoor room. Built two feet deep or more, it will prove a handy spot to keep garden equipment or folding deck furniture.

Screening for privacy and wind control may be necessary if the deck is built high off the ground. If, however, it is set close to the ground, yard fences or plantings usually furnish adequate protection.

Here's The Answer

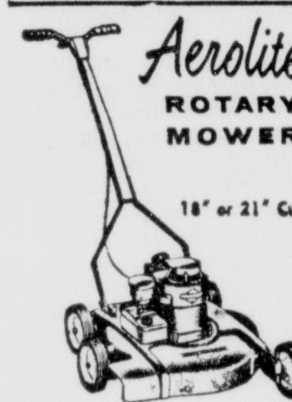

QUESTION. I would like some information about installing steel clothes poles in the ground—the kind where sockets are placed in the ground and the poles can be taken in and out as desired. How much cement should be put around the sockets? Also, some one told me to place bricks in the hole before pouring in the cement. Is this correct?

ANSWER. Yes, place a brick or a flat stone in the hole, which should extend about six inches all around the socket. Prop up the socket and fill the hole with a concrete mixture. Keep the concrete moist for several days by sprinkling it often with water.

Q. What is the best way to attach wood furring strips to concrete or masonry walls?

A. The Western Pine Association recommends use of any of the various types of special screw plugs on sale in hardware stores. They are usually made of fiber, lead, or plastic. Drill holes for the plugs three to four feet apart. When a screw is inserted into the plug, it will wedge out into its hole, firmly imbedding it into the wall and holding the furring strip tightly.

Politics for America's Sake

Nothing that any Democratic apologist can say or do will cover up the embarrassment caused by the use of his party's majority vote in the Senate to kill civil rights. The damage has been done.

The political trap set by the Republican minority snapped shut exactly as everybody knew it would. The Democratic majority could not go through the motions of carrying out either its own or the Republican minority's pledges on civil rights. Its bluff was called.

The result in the Senate would have been a filibuster that would have put southern Democrats in the limelight at the moment when the party needs to keep them out of sight, lest independent voters be alienated and colored voters offended.

Furthermore, the chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee is Mississippi Sen. James O. Eastland, a violent segregationist and irreconcilable states' righter who is anathema to liberals inside and outside the Democratic party. He would have taken it on himself, as Rep. Howard W. Smith of Virginia did as House Rules Committee chairman, to sit on the proposal until either it died or he could be pried loose.

THE REPUBLICAN political move was a brilliant success.

The Democratic cover-up was a lame and shabby confession of embarrassment.

Perhaps the next political move, which may very well be the ticklish issue of widening the margin of medical security for the aged, will help the Democrats by embarrassing Republicans.

Both parties are wringing every advantage they can out of the tag-end session. This is the beginning of their national campaigns.

Neither side can charge the other with playing politics, because both sides are playing politics for all the game is worth.

And what, really, is the game worth? This is an engrossing question that goes to the heart of party government.

It would be worth absolutely nothing if the American people didn't believe in party government. But it wouldn't be worth the effort it takes if all the American people could be fooled as easily as politicians seem to think they can be.

Somewhere between politics played with restraint and intelligence to determine which party is going to come out on top, and politics played for its own sake, is a happy medium—a golden mean.

THIS IS WHAT can save the United States from the fate of France, which finally became the victim of politics played for its own sake.

The American people must try to understand how it works and follow it with understanding. This is government—the essence of representative democracy. It is not, as is so frequently charged by people who apparently would prefer dictatorship, a breakdown of government.

And most clearly it is no reason to accuse one party of doing something unworthy when it is merely duplicating the other party's efforts.

Republicans won the first round of the tag-end session political fight by making the Democrats walk into the civil rights trap. But the fight won't be over until Congress adjourns sine die and carries the 1960 campaign to the stump.

Congo's 'Constitutional Convention'

The jump from terror in the fledgling republic of Congo to the founding fathers of the American republic discussing the Constitution in the summer of 1787 is 173 years long.

Yet, the issue in the Congo and the issue here 173 years ago could have been cut out of the same tangle in the web of human affairs.

War is threatened in the Congo because there is an irreconcilable difference between federalists and nationalists. Belgium is using its waning force to clip the wings of Premier Lumumba's nationalist, who want a central government strong enough to dominate the country.

Belgians are using their position in Katanga province and the strength of its premier, Moïse Tshombe, to undermine Lumumba's creed and build up his nearest rival, Joseph Kasavubu, who is in favor of federalism.

THE TENDENCY is to think the Congolese are living in chaos because they are too backward for self-government. The fact is that in their backward condition they have collided with one of the most sophisticated situations in government.

Revolutionists in America and later in France wanted republicanism to put an end forever to strong central government. They had endured it under despotic kings and wanted no part of it. The Congolese have a strongly divided mind about it.

That is the issue that threatens them and gives outsiders both the opportunity and the obligation to intervene in their affairs.

Naturally, they resent the Belgians, who had promised to leave and now are standing on the order of their going. Naturally, they are playing off one great power against another, in the hope of gaining advantage.

But Americans tempted to deliver harsh judgment on this new republic should remember that their forefathers played off the great powers against each other, too, and it wasn't healthy to be found here in a red coat after Cornwallis surrendered in 1781.

EVEN TODAY, in 1960, the issue that took form in the last years of the 18th century has not been settled. Troops still stand by for duty in the event another Little Rock precipitates afresh the issue of dominant national power vs. a federation of states, in which power would be reserved to local government.

Chaos in the Congo on the threshold of independence is an affront to those who think government must be tidy, efficient and able to maintain order. Those who think this are refugees from the truth.

Government never has been that way, in America, the Congo, or anywhere else. It is an endless struggle to preserve order, which is what government in the republic of Congo is engaged in right now, without benefit of a Constitutional Convention and a George Washington to keep order while the disputants threshed out the differences between Jeffersonism and Hamiltonism.

"I Have a Little Shadow That Goes In and Out With Me..."

Inside Labor By Victor Riesel

Much of our chance for smashing the Soviet's invisible infiltration of the West depends on the success of something you've probably never heard of —

"Cassa del Mezzogiorno." This is "The Fund for the South" of Italy.

"Mezzogiorno" is so important it rates a full ministry in the Italian Premier's cabinet—a post now held by a friend of ours, devoted to Western decency and freedom, Giulio Pastore.

It is his assignment to rehabilitate southern Italy, by bringing in modern industry, developing modern farms and somehow, somewhere, finding jobs for two million Italians in the lower part of the boot and in Sicily.

If he succeeds, Pastore will not only bring his people out of the swamp of ancient and cruel poverty and hunger but he will also cripple the Communist apparatus there.

If Mezzogiorno fails, the Soviets may well dominate Italy soon. The consequences of a Soviet Italy are obvious.

Pastore and his Mezzogiorno lean heavily on the efforts to build a united Europe through the European Economic Community — the Common Market.

Six governments — Germany, France, Italy, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg—have a two-year-old economic "state" which is an effort to help each other and make capitalism work.

WHAT CAN the Common Market do for Italy, for example? First the Common Market helps create the prosperity—all through Europe—without which there are no jobs.

Prosperity means production. Production today means automation, new plants, the change over from an archaic product to a salesworthy one and the regrouping of industries.

This goes for new activity in southern Italy as well as in France, Belgium or Germany.

But new plants in southern Italy won't help unless the workers there become skilled. So the six nations are ripping out the frontiers between them.

Thousands of southern Italian workers soon will be able to move wherever they wish inside the Common Market. They will be trained and after a while they will return to "The Boot" and Sicily.

To help train them and other workers inside the Community and to help plants retain labor while they are retooling or automating or regrouping, the Common Market has set up the European Social Fund.

If an old shoe lace shop, for example, wants to convert to producing wiring for TV sets, it must lay off its workers.

Under the agreement, this plant's unemployed workers will receive at least 90 per cent of their old pay, while waiting for the shop to recall them.

THE GOVERNMENT involved pays half of this cost and the Common Market "government" pays the other half.

Or, suppose a plant shuts down permanently but the town wants to keep its skilled workers. The European Social Fund can pay them their full wages until they find new jobs.

On the fund can finance workers "reinstallation"—their movement across the continent into new area.

Or the fund can finance their retraining so they can handle new automatic machinery or go into a different line entirely.

The Common Market objective is to have full employment. If this is not possible, the Common Market will give the jobless workers from 90 to 100 per cent of their former pay until they are placed.

This is a joint effort by the Common Market and by the government in which there is the unemployment. There is no contribution by the workers to the big fund.

This is far more than an assistance program. It is, in effect, the payment to workers for having skills or for being available for work anywhere in the European Economic Community.

Thus under the "free movement of labor" the Common Market government can help workers train, shift and maintain themselves during difficult periods.

Thus "The Six" are building a united states of Europe with which we can stand shoulder to shoulder in common prosperity, common decency and common defense.

The Great Debate

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Let the Press Have It

There's a lot of talk about a "great debate" between Kennedy and Nixon. It's supposed to take place when Congress repeals a provision of law which requires radio and television stations to give "equal time" to all candidates for a public office, irrespective of the size of the "political party" they claim to represent or of the news interest in what they have to say.

But what has Congress got to do with it? The Constitution says Congress "shall make no law abridging the freedom of the press." The so-called "equal time" provisions are as invalid today as if the Congress had passed a law telling newspapers what kind of headlines they may put over their news articles.

Why, indeed, does anybody wait for Congress to act before the "great debate" can take place? Why do the press associations and the newspapers wait?

The candidates say they are ready and that they will not speak from notes but will go at the controversial questions in a wholly impromptu manner.

Why, therefore, shouldn't The Associated Press and United Press International, which serve newspapers publishing more than 58 million copies a day, take the initiative and arrange for the debate? There's no law that says the debate can be carried on only by television or radio.

THERE IS, moreover, today a remarkable electronic invention, called "video tape," which permits television cameras to record any scene, along with sound, on a magnetic tape. Such recordings can not only be televised but can be duplicated on other tapes which also can be used over and over again on as many television stations as desire it.

A suitable studio is available in the Capitol Building — paid for by the taxpayers — which is used every day for television or radio interviews with members of Congress. While these can, of course, be exhibited immediately after being recorded, the conversations often are taped several days in advance and are sometimes shown to the public a week or more later.

So it would be easy for the Associated Press and United Press International to invite Messrs. Nixon and Kennedy to a joint debate on perhaps one topic a week throughout the campaign, and furnish the video tape to the television stations, individually or as networks, to use as they please just as would the newspapers. The recording also could be made available for radio broadcasting.

No governmental authority tells the press how much space it should give to any speech by government officials or candidates or anybody else.

As a matter of fact, it would be a good idea not to let Nikita Khrushchev get the impression that the government here controls television and radio in political campaigns, for he could twist this to mean that what he is doing in Russia is analogous and that America's boast about the press being free from governmental restriction is hypocritical.

IT WILL BE argued that the people like to see the two nominees on the screen — how they look in action. The newspapers could easily print a sequence of snapshots from the film recording showing the facial expressions and gestures of the candidates that would be of interest to the people.

Such publication has the advantage, too, of permitting those citizens who work in the evenings and can't see television to pick up their favorite newspaper and read the "great debate" whenever it is convenient to do so.

But there is no reason why the whole thing couldn't be released simultaneously for public reading, television viewing and listening by radio. Lots of news material is given out for publication in print or over the air at a fixed time in the day.

If the American people are really pining to hear or read the "great debate" between Nixon and Kennedy, there is no good reason for waiting on a dallying Congress to enact superfluous legislation designed to spare the television and radio stations some embarrassing controversies with would-be candidates for president on tickets of minor parties.

It would also furnish the television and broadcasting companies a good opportunity to fight in the courts the unconstitutional laws that seek to control the freedom of the press.

The truth is radio and television are just as much a part of the "press" as are books, magazines, press associations and newspapers and they are entitled to present as much or as little of the "great debate" as they think the public wants.

New York Herald Tribune

Cloudland Revisited

By TRUMAN TWILL

Never since the dental profession blocked out the present with old magazines in the waiting room have so many Americans gone back to happier days than are going there via television.

"Make me a boy again just for tonight!"

"How dear to my heart are the scenes of my childhood when fond recollection recalls them to view."

Television shows you the actors of yesterday when they were the rage. It interposes between you and current reality an insulating curtain reinforced with "time lag."

What you look at is never reality nor even a reflection in a mirror. It is an animated cartoon of reality, or a home movie of the real thing, with the camera speed and focus not just what they should be but close enough to create an illusion.

It is a taped version, with none of the upsets of reality left in to destroy the illusion that life is a stage with a prompter in the wings and a stage crew standing by to change the scenery.

It is a never-ending rerun of bits and pieces once considered to have special merit — like books that purport to contain the "best" of whatever authors are represented in them.

Television in the summer months is an anthology of itself in the winter months.

In the winter months, it is an anthology of itself in the summer months.

TV has turned into a sleep-walking review of things that happened from two hours to 20 years ago, something as it would be to read newspapers stored in the attic — and always to put today's paper away for 24 hours before paying any attention to it.

The medium whose fascination was going to be that of a window on life, with everything unheard and unpredictable, has been converted by necessity into a museum of its own memorable moments and rehearsed as a litany.

It's as though a newspaper, fascinated by the sinking of the Titanic, were to rerun the story over and over again. Or were to give its readers a rerun of the Chicago fire. Or hold up the story of a manhunt until it knew how everything turned out.

Under this policy, Fidel Castro, now that he has fallen on evil days, would be depicted as he was when he was riding high. Premier Khrushchev would be shown again on the Garsf farm, eating hot dogs in the stockyards and conferring at Camp David.

In summer, last winter's highlights would be the piece de resistance. In winter, last summer's high temperatures would be featured.

There would be melancholy satisfaction in this and even high old times occasionally, but newspapers discovered long ago that the past is better left to historians.

Newspapers have their own time-lag problem, but they haven't gone overboard on reruns, except for the "Dear Virginia" letter from the New York Sun — and even that doesn't appear EVERY Christmas.

In television's earliest days, when it was a novelty, as radio had been, the question was what form it would assume in its evolution. That is always the question during the novelty stage.

We are getting the answer now. Television is going to be the kaleidoscope pictures of long ago, the home movies of not so long ago and the color slides of the vacation trip. It is going to be an illustrated encyclopedia with sound effects.

Once Over

Backyard swimming pool has reached the epidemic stage. People who used to feel no loss of status if they bathed indoors are now suffering heartbreak if they can't have their own pool.

Not long ago the outdoor pool was limited to the Rockefellers, Astors and other wealthy folks. It constituted upper brackets with water life.

Today, production of pools is a major industry and they are sold almost everywhere, even at drugstores.

A swim in the patio is delivered through simple salesmanship and installation methods that feature sale of iceboxes, aluminum kitchens and air conditioners. "Want any swimming pools today?" is a common inquiry at the back door. And a frequent answer is "What delayed you?"

I phoned in my order for a Capri model pool with pushbutton refilling, luxury diving platform and two colored ladders a week ago.

Industry has a Swimming Pool Abe magazine. There are companies that will pour you a fireside bathing resort in all shapes, colors and depths. They also come in plastics, rubber and rock.

Pools are also available in "compact" size for a small sum, with prompt delivery, book of instructions and guarantee for the "first 100 swims."

The Poor Man's Riviera is here and a buy-a-pool psychology has swept the country, gripping folks who thought bathtub sufficient and felt so self denial or neighborhood loss of prestige if they had to go to the seaside, river or lake for a swim.

It's a luxury age and many a workingman now dreams of a backyard marina and channel to the nearest harbor, all on a credit card.

25th Anniversary of Law Observed 14 Million Persons Receiving Social Security Benefits

Today, twenty-five years after the original Social Security Act became law, over 14 million men, women, and children are receiving monthly old-age, survivors, and disability insurance benefit checks

Production Up for All Steel Producers Except America

CLEVELAND (AP)—In all the major steel producing nations of the world except the U. S. steel production was up in the first half of 1960 over the first six months of 1959.

The magazine Steel reported today that while steel production was down 5 per cent in this country for the first half, Japan showed a gain of 40 per cent, Italy 30 per cent, United Kingdom 28 per cent, West Germany 23 per cent, the Benelux countries 18 per cent, France 15 per cent and the USSR 9 per cent.

In the same issue the weekly trade publication reported "a dramatic reversal of the import tide that was running so strongly against U. S. steelmakers during the first quarter." Steel cited figures released by the Department of Commerce showing steel exports jumped to 332,000 tons in June, the largest volume since October, 1957, while imports dropped to 213,000 tons, lowest since November, 1958.

No further drops in imports are likely, however, Steel said.

The magazine reported that many steel consumers have finished inventory adjustments but are following a "wait and see" policy in placing orders. Steelmakers still believe September orders will be 10 per cent better than bookings in August, Steel said.

Steelmaking operations advanced slightly last week to 54.6 per cent of rated capacity, total output coming to about 1,556,000 ingot tons. No major changes in the rate of production are expected before Labor Day, Steel said.

CHEESECAKE — This, says her breathless press agent, is actress Sophia Loren's first posed picture showing her in a bathing suit since she became a movie star. She consented to pose after doing a kissing scene in water at Capri near Naples, Italy.

WHO IS THE MAN WITH TOMORROW IN HIS POCKET?

totaling $900 million a month. Marking the 25th anniversary of the signing of the original Social Security Act by President Roosevelt on Aug. 14, 1935, William J. McCauley, district manager of the Youngstown social security office, noted that 25 years ago about half of all persons aged 65 or over were mainly or wholly dependent on relatives and friends.

Today, over 72 percent of a much larger aged population are either drawing old-age and survivors insurance benefits, or will be eligible to draw them when the worker retires.

Originally designed to provide only old-age insurance benefits for workers in commerce and industry, these provisions of the social security program have been expanded and improved over the years. About 9 out of 10 workers in the United States, almost the entire gainfully employed population work in employment or self-employment covered by social security.

"Although social security has become firmly associated with the idea of old age," McCauley said, "the survivors and disability provisions of the law are a bulwark of protection for American families."

To illustrate, he pointed out that 1.5 million of the estimated 2 million fatherless children in the nation are receiving monthly survivors insurance benefits under the Social Security Act.

Ninety percent of the mothers and children in the country are eligible for these benefits should the head of the family die.

Close to half a million disabled workers and their families are now receiving monthly disability insurance benefits and more than 43 million workers are insured for the payment of these benefits in the event that they should become severely and permanently disabled.

To help celebrate its 25th anniversary, Mayor Dean Cranmer of Salem, Mayor Frank R. Franko of Youngstown and Mayor Bert Goodballet of East Liverpool have issued a proclamation designating Aug. 14-20 as Social Security Week. The Youngstown District services both Mahoning and Columbiana Counties.

In this district McCauley stated that actual figures show that in 1959 for this area, there were 35,110 persons receiving benefits totaling $29,132,832.00. Of this total, 24,945 persons received $1,763,086.00 per month in Mahoning County and 10,165 persons in Columbiana County received $664,650.00 in monthly benefits.

Winona

Winona WCTU will hold a picnic at the Community Playground Thursday. President Miss Josephine Dunn announced that the LTL and the YTC and their mothers will be guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Black have recently returned from a two-week vacation in the West.

Jay Althouse will supply the pulpit of the Methodist Church August 14 and 28, during the vacation of the regular pastor the Rev. John Capper.

Official board of the Methodist Church will meet Tuesday.

The Doctor Says

By HAROLD THOMAS HYMAN, M.D.

Early Glaucoma Treatment Fends Blindness

The human eye is shaped like a ball. What is ordinarily seen between upper and lower lids is just a small portion of its surface that's fitted with a window permitting unobstructed penetration by light waves.

Dr. R. T. Hyman

Within the eyeball, there's a circulating fluid that's kept under fairly constant pressure. When there's an increase of the pressure within the eyeball (intraocular tension), the condition of glaucoma is said to exist.

Unless corrected, glaucoma produces visual impairment and even total blindness as a result of damage to the optic nerve that enters the eyeball at a point directly opposite to the pupillary window.

OF THE NEARLY 30,000 Americans who become blind each year, approximately 13 per cent suffer visual loss because of undetected glaucoma.

To prevent needless suffering and incapacitation of glaucomatous blindness, many public-spirited organizations conduct mass screening surveys, especially for the 40-and-over age group of whom one in each 50 displays evidences of an unsuspected elevation of intraocular tension.

Recently, for example, 220 persons were tested at the Colorado State Medical convention and six cases of unsuspected glaucoma were discovered — four in doctors.

In the Pittsburgh area, almost 21,000 persons were examined by the local ophthalmological society, under the auspices of the Pennsylvania Association for the Blind. Glaucoma was suspected in 499 men and 699 women, and it was proved in 378 or 1.8 per cent of all those examined.

THE TEST FOR glaucoma is easily carried out. After instilling a few drops of a rapidly acting local anesthetic in the eye, a small circular measuring instrument (tonometer) is pressed against the anesthetized eyeball. The reading is then made on a scale comparable to an ordinary blood pressure machine.

The condition can most often be controlled by the instillation of eye drops that reduce the size of the pupillary opening and by mouth doses of one of the new drugs that regulate the fluid content of our tissues. Both drugs require a physician's prescription and supervision. Should drug treatment fail, recourse to surgery may successfully preserve vision.

Although glaucoma is often unsuspected, it may make its presence known.

IN ACUTE GLAUCOMA, the attack is featured by such severe pain in the affected eye or eyes that medical consultation is soon sought.

In the more treacherous chronic phase, the suspicion of the alert patient may be aroused by blurring of vision, the appearance of halos around electric lights, nagging discomfort in one or both eyes, and contraction of the field of vision so that nothing is seen except what lies directly ahead like "looking through a gun barrel."

You Don't Say

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Does civilization make dogs as well as human beings nervous? Man's best friend now bites more than 600,000 people each year in this country.

America's three most popular hobbies are stamp collecting, fishing, and girl watching.

The old-time pool hall is dying out fast. But there are still about 225 public billiard parlors in New York City.

Prosperity note: The United States now spends more on gambling, smoking and drinking than it does on education.

Election oddity: In town elections in colonial times people often voted with vegetables. You dropped a kernel of corn in the ballot box to show you were for a candidate, a bean to show you opposed him.

Our quotable notables: "Women are wiser than men," said James Stephens, "because they know less and understand more."

The piano remains our best-loved musical instrument, despite the rising crop of teen-age guitar-twanglers. Some 12 million U.S. homes have pianos.

Human stoves: Air-conditioning engineers estimate that 12,000 people in a convention hall generate every hour enough heat to cook 15,000 hot dogs.

The hearty Hibernians: The Irish, known for their zest for living, are among the world's biggest eaters. They consume an average of 3,510 calories daily.

Did you know the water level of a river is always higher on one side than the other? This is caused by the force of the earth's rotation.

Children of broad-chested parents grow faster and mature earlier than children of narrow-chested parents.

Apt definitions: Actor Walter Slezak defines a bachelor as "a guy who has to fix only one breakfast before he goes to work."

Many women yearn to have look-alike twins, but the odds are against them. Twins occur once in every 87 human births, but only one out of every three pairs of twins are identical.

Here's a tip-off on the spread of America's new expense-account and charge-account aristocracy. At the Stork Club, which is heavily patronized by cafe society, only 20 per cent of the customers now pay in cash. If you carry money any more, it's a sign of insecurity.

Worst pun of the year: A sign on a fur shop says: "Gentlemen befur blondes."

The hog, man's oldest domesticated food animal, was considered sacred in ancient Egypt. It was sacrificed only on religious feasts, and its blood was supposed to have great medicinal value.

It was Logan Pearsall Smith who observed, "There are two things to aim at in life: first, to get what you want and; after that, to enjoy it. Only the wisest of mankind achieve the second."

Miss Ruth Hoch

Ohio Bell Co. Employees Fete Miss Hoch

A diamond-studded service emblem now being worn by Miss Ruth M. Hoch, business office supervisor for the Ohio Bell Telephone Co., distinguishes her as a 35-year veteran in the company's employ.

Miss Hoch joined the telephone company here on Aug. 1, 1925, as a service representative. She was promoted to her present position in charge of the local business office in 1948.

A native of Fairmont, W. Va., Miss Hoch spent much of her childhood here. She was graduated from Salem High School in 1923 and from the Salem Business College in 1925.

Over the years she has become well known as organist at Holy Trinity Lutheran Church. She has served several terms as president of the Salem Quota Club and when not on duty at Ohio Bell, her friends find her hard at work among her flowers and shrubs at home, 1126 E. 10th St.

An "evening of surprises" was enjoyed by Miss Hoch when the girls in the office of the Commercial Department took her to dinner at the Ala Baba Smorgasbord in Warren and to "Annie Get Your Gun" at the Packard Music Hall recently.

A gift was presented to the honoree in remembrance of her anniversary and the evening concluded with refreshments at the Hoch residence with Mrs. Alice Hoch and Miss Jeanette Hoch as hostesses.

Miss Kay Artis McCoy To Wed Robert Wilson

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin McCoy of Negley announce the engagement of their daughter, Kay Artis, to Robert Lee Wilson of RD 1, Rogers, son of Kenneth Wilson Sr. of New Waterford and the late Mrs. Hazel Wilson.

Miss McCoy is a 1960 graduate of East Palestine High School. Mr. Wilson attended New Waterford High School.

Both Miss McCoy and her fiancé are employed by the Howard Johnson Restaurant in New Springfield. No date has been set for the wedding.

DIEHL LAKE Ladies Auxiliary will hold its annual benefit card party Wednesday at 1 p.m. in the club house. Luncheon will be served.

The party committee, headed by Mrs. Jack Prier, is comprised of Mrs. Everett Bush, Mrs. Gertrude James, Mrs. Russell Mounts, Mrs. John Hultz, Mrs. Allan Kirk, Mrs. Lester Leyda, Mrs. James Mahoney, Mrs. Clayton Medley and Mrs. Roy Shipley.

ELIZABETH FRY Class of the First Friends Church held a picnic supper recently at Centennial Park, with 17 in attendance.

Miss Pearl Walker, devotional leader, used as her theme, "Stickers for God's Word."

Mrs. N. A. Lewis, Mrs. Gertrude Webb, Mrs. Connie Everett and Mrs. John Guy contributed to the program with articles and verse.

The Oct. 12 meeting will be in the home of Mrs. Marie Rich of E. School St. with Mrs. L. L. McCullage as associate hostess. Mrs. Lewis will lead the devotions, and Mrs. Guy will be in charge of the program.

MR. AND MRS. Club of the First United Presbyterian Church will hold a swimming party next Saturday at the Salem Country Club followed by a corn roast at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gail Herron of 955 Southeast Blvd.

SALEM COUNCIL of Church Women will hold an all-day sewing session Tuesday in Presbyterian Westminster House. Those attending are to take sack lunches.

THE SIXTIETH wedding anniversary celebration for Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Conser of New Garden held Sunday at the Methodist Church was well attended.

The affair was planned by the couple's grandchildren. The Conser have nine children, 14 grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

A decorated cake flanked by pink candles centered the refreshment table. Several vase arrangements of gladioli, received by the couple, added to the room decorations.

MRS. FRANK SCOTT of Salem Lisbon Road entertained the Rurality Club recently in her home. Honors in "500" went to Mrs. Mary Fry and Mrs. John Hindman. Mrs. Robert Whitcomb and Mrs. Donald Palmer, both of Salem, were guests.

Mrs. Donald Dolphin assisted the hostess when lunch was served. Mrs. Cecil Bennett will entertain the club on September 14 at her home in Winona.

THE CHRISTIAN Home Builders Class of St. Jacob's United Church of Christ will meet Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Tullis.

Miss Ruth Sanor Wed to Robert Hall

Miss Ruth Ann Sanor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Sanor of New Garden, and Robert Hall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jewell Hall, also of New Garden, were married Aug. 5, with the Rev. Ashley Wilson officiating at the ceremony in his home in Hanoverton.

The newlyweds are residing at the home of the bride's parents after returning from a wedding trip to Geneva on the Lake.

For her marriage, the bride chose a white linen sheath. Her maid of honor, Miss Deloris Hall, a sister of the bridegroom, was attired in a blue street length dress. Jerry Marks was best man.

Antique Car Owners Conclude Two-Day Columbiana Meeting

COLUMBIANA — Approximately 100 members of the Antique Automobile Club of America, Inc., staged its annual rally Friday and Saturday at the Firestone Farm east of town.

Bride-elect Is Honored At Leetonia

LEETONIA — A shower of gifts was presented to Miss Shirley Brautigam of Salem Thursday evening at a party at the home of Mrs. D. R. White in Leetonia. Miss Brautigam will become the bride of Glenn Smith Sept. 3 at 7:30 p.m. at the Methodist Church in Salem. Open church will be observed. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Brautigam of Salem, and her fiancé is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Smith of Columbia St., Leetonia.

Games and cards were the diversion of the evening with prizes going to Mrs. Alice Vignon, Mrs. George Hanna, Mrs. Orlin Dressel, and Mrs. Richard Laughlin. The guests were club associates of Mrs. Smith, mother of the bridegroom-elect. Special guests were Mrs. Laughlin, Mrs. George Rober and Mrs. Chester Brautigam, all of Salem.

The gift table was laid with a white cloth and decorated with white gladioli and ivy, with white wedding bells, decorating the home. Place favors were small bags of rice, tagged "Take me to the Wedding."

Mrs. White was assisted by her mother, Mrs. Bernice Wilson and daughter, Mrs. Hugu Taylor.

Mrs. Jane Kegelmeyer and Clark McCowan of Leetonia won high scores at the card party sponsored by the Rebekah Lodge Thursday evening. Special prizes were won by Herbert Secrist of New Waterford and Herbert Daugan of Salem.

Another benefit will be held Saturday.

BUBBLE BATH IN A COAL MINE — A new method of fighting fires deep inside coal mines involves foam produced from a soaplike solution sprayed through netting. Two men stand waist-deep in the stuff in Armco's mine in Montcoal, W.Va. Called a foam plug, the new method enables rescuers to stay out of danger while the foam extinguishes the blaze or keeps it from spreading. The entire inside of the mine was filled with foam in less than two hours.

Deaths, Funerals

Leland S. Whinnery

DEATH — Leland S. Whinnery, 72, of Morristown, N.Y., died of complications this morning in a hospital in Ogdensburg, N.Y.

Born Sept. 12, 1887 in Butler Township just north of Winona, he spent the early years of his life in that community.

In 1928, he married Celia Meserve of Morristown and made his home there except for eight years in Syracuse, N.Y.

He is survived by three sisters, Mrs. Greta Thomas and Mrs. Zaida Pottor, both of Salem and Mrs. Sylvia Basinger of Shaker Heights.

Burial will be in Morristown Cemetery.

Mrs. Beer Bauman

COLUMBIANA — Mrs. Lena M. Bauman, 90, of 110 Union St. died at 7:30 a.m. Saturday in Millersburg, where she has resided the past two years.

Born May 11, 1870 in Orangeville, she was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dabney. In 1890 she married Beer Bauman, who died in 1938.

She had resided in this area most of her life.

Survivors include two daughters, Mrs. Arthur Bailey and Mrs. Howard Haffly, both of Akron; a son, Jay of Niles; five grandchildren; seven great-grandchildren; a great-great-grandchild; and a half-brother, Clyde Baldwin of Warren.

Services will be held Tuesday at 2 p.m. at the Fry Funeral Home here. The Rev. Charles Lang supply pastor at Grace United Church of Christ, will officiate, with burial in Ellsworth Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home this evening from 7 to 9.

Mrs. Beverly McDewitt

NORTH LIMA — Mrs. Elouise McDewitt, 44, of Bassinger Road died at 2 a.m. today in South Side Hospital following an illness of two weeks.

Born April 3, 1916, in Beaver Township, she was a daughter of Samuel and Della Shontz Summers.

Besides her husband, Beverly, whom she married May 20, 1934, she leaves her mother, who resides in Youngstown; a daughter, Mrs. James Shipley of Akron; two sons, Walter Miles McDewitt of Youngstown and David K. McDewitt at home; four sisters, Mrs. Georgia Crist of New Middleton, Mrs. Thomas Broadrick of Boardman, Mrs. Calvin Minick of Poland, Mrs. Frederick Weinschenk of Philadelphia, Pa.; a brother, Brian Summers of Arizona; and one grandchild.

Service will be Wednesday at 2 p.m. at the Seelye-Bellhart Funeral Home, North Lima, with the Rev. Samuel Gross, pastor of the Good Hope Lutheran Church, officiating.

Interment will be in Lake Park Cemetery, Youngstown.

Friends may call at the funeral home Tuesday evening.

Howard Ridenour

CANTON — Howard C. T. Ridenour, 71, of 312 Belle Ave., N. E., Perry Heights, died of complications this morning in Aultman Hospital.

Born in Findlay July 24, 1889, he was a son of Randolph and Bertha Cline Ridenour.

He had been a resident of Perry Heights for 30 years, coming from Findlay. He was a telegrapher for the Pennsylvania Railroad 51 years and eight months before his retirement in 1938.

He was a member of the Calvary Presbyterian Church and of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers.

His wife, Hazel M. Ridenour, two nieces and two nephews survive.

Service will be Wednesday at 1:30 p.m. at the Forney-Cleaver Funeral Home. The Rev. William E. Briggs will officiate.

Burial will be in Sunset Hills Burial Park.

Loss In Homeworth

Barn Fire Is $45,000

HOMEWORTH — Lost in the barn fire at the Fred Pieren dairy farm on the Homeworth-Moultrie road Friday was estimated at $45,000.

A large quantity of grain, mechanical equipment and four calves was lost in the fire. The loss was partially covered by insurance.

Firemen from Homeworth and North Georgetown responded to the alarm and saved nearby buildings.

Spontaneous combustion in a hay mow is blamed for the fire.

Boy Is Injured

Charles Smith, 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. William Smith of Washingtonville, is confined to his home after being struck on the head with a board. A spike in the board lacerated the boy's head.

The mishap occurred Sunday while the youth watched the dismantling of the booths at the firemen's festival in Washingtonville. While the youth was enroute to City Hospital for treatment, his older brother, James, 12, was returning home where he was admitted Friday night after being struck on the head by a ball.

Fugitive Hunted In Salineville Area

County deputies, state highway patrolmen and Salineville police conducted an abortive search for Thomas Merical, 30, of Beaver County, Pa., Sunday night and early this morning near New Salisbury, following a tip to Salineville Police Chief Cleo Mellott that the fugitive had been seen in a woods in that area.

About 13 cars of officers took part. The search there was called off this morning.

Merical, a former Wellsville resident, broke through a cordon of police officers at his home last Wednesday when they sought to arrest him for the alleged rape of his 16-year-old stepdaughter. He fled in a hail of bullets, some of which shattered the rear window of his 1955 tan and pink Ford Fairlane.

Since then numerous persons throughout the tri-state area have reported seeing his car.

Columbiana County deputies were dispatched to Guilford Lake Friday night on a tip, and Wellsville police also investigated a report that the car was in that town Friday.

The fugitive was reported seen in a Chester, W. Va., tavern Thursday with two pistols and a fifth of whiskey.

2,500 Inspect Old Cars at Columbiana

Ninety-three members of the Antique Automobile Club of America participated in the annual rally, which ended yesterday at the Firestone Homestead Farms near Columbiana. About 2,500 spectators saw the 45 old cars.

Sunday's events included a cabbage roll, in which the contestants drove the antique autos down a 250 foot course, sweeping a cabbage along with a broom, and a moving dirt throw.

A picnic was held at noon Saturday, followed by a tour of the Firestone tire test center and an outing at Columbiana's Firestone Memorial Park. The Ruritan Club served a barbecue dinner Saturday, while other meals were served at Dixon Elementary School.

Charles Harper, superintendent of the Firestone Homestead Farms, arranged a farm wagon tour of the farm for the guests.

Intruders Enter Two Places Here

Two breaking and entering reports were investigated over the weekend by Salem police.

George Pacurar of the Quaker Motor Sales reported the firm's garage at 1516 S. Lincoln Ave. was entered between 8:30 p.m. Saturday and 4:30 a.m. Sunday. He said $3 was taken from a vending machine and $5 from a cash register.

He also said a car parked in the garage was driven for 15 miles and returned to the garage.

A report from Lloyd Scott, 1755 N. Ellsworth Ave. stated that the concession stand at Kelley Field was broken into between midnight and 7 a.m. Sunday. The cash drawer was rifled but nothing taken, the report says.

Brakes on Car In Accident Failed

No charges will be filed against Mrs. Nelle Holzbach, 58, of 1081 Jennings Ave., driver of a car which rammed a house on New Garden St. Friday morning.

Patrolman Ray Hillbrand, investigating officer, said this morning that the investigation showed brakes on the car failed as reported at the time of the accident by Mrs. Holzbach.

The home, occupied by Mary and Maude Herbert, was knocked from its foundation. The occupants were not injured. Mrs. Holzbach and a passenger, Mrs. Maxine Smith, 42, of 1127 Liberty St., were treated for multiple brush burns and bruises.

"I look upon him as a reconnaissance scout," she said, "and he shouldn't be labeled a spy. He never disguised; he never pretended to be what he wasn't."

Although it admitted the Powers family to the Soviet Union for the trial, the Soviet government has told the U.S. Embassy no Americans would be allowed to see the pilot before his trial. Barbara also said she had no word yet on her request to see Premier Nikita Khrushchev to make a personal appeal.

The pilot's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver W. Powers of Pound, Va., and Barbara talked Sunday with U.S. Minister-Counselor Edward L. Freers at the embassy.

Crashed Into House

The Hartzells were injured at 3:25 p.m. Saturday when their car left the Homeworth Rd., three miles south of Rt. 62, careened through a cornfield, across a secondary road, across a lawn and into the side of a brick home, owned by Russell Iden, RD 5, Alliance.

Patrolmen estimated damages to the home at $10,000, citing two cav. ed in outside walls, two caved in inside walls and a damaged fireplace. Although the Idens were at home, no one in the house was injured.

Hartzell and his passenger, Judy Hartzell, suffered cuts and were taken to Alliance City Hospital.

Hartzell was cited for reckless operation.

Cited by Patrolmen

Albert Baron, 44, of Struthers, was cited by Lisbon Post Patrolmen for driving while intoxicated Saturday at 4:10 a.m. after his car went off Rt. 14, three and one half miles east of Rt. 7, and struck a mailbox.

Roy Ruse Jr., 35, of Canton, was charged with improper backing at 5:50 p.m. Saturday after he backed his car out of a private drive on Depot Rd., three and one half miles south of Salem, into the path of an auto driven by Harold Morris, 25, of RD 3, Salem.

Charged for failure to yield the right of way, was Roy Holibaugh, 45, of Alliance, after his car collided with one driven by Karen S. Clark, 19, of Homeworth, at 4:55 p.m. Saturday on the Georgetown-Westville Rd., three and one half miles south of Westville.

Daniel Taylor, 19, of Taylor Ave., New Waterford, was cited for driving left of center Sunday at 4:55 a.m. after his car left Rt. 46, a mile and a half west of Rt. 7, and hit a culvert abutment. Patrolmen said Taylor fell asleep.

Robert S. Iar, 16, of Strattonville, Pa., lost control of his car, causing it to crash into a ditch on the Painter Rd., a mile east of Rt. 62, at 1 a.m. Sunday; patrolmen said.

Charles McElwee, 58, of E. 1st Liverpool, was charged with driving left of center at 5:30 p.m. Sunday after his car and one driven by Thomas Heverly, 41, of E. 1st Liverpool collided on Knepper Rd., a half mile east of Rt. 30.

Two cars were damaged slightly Sunday at 5:20 p.m. when one driven by Frank Phillips, 30, of Mt. Gilead, ran into the rear of another operated by Shirley A. Stein, 16, of Warren. The mishap occurred on Rt. 224, two miles west of Rt. 534.

Homeowner Orders Firemen to Leave

Salem city firemen were called to an E. 11th St. address in Perry Township Saturday afternoon and then ordered out by the household.

Chief Clarence Wright said it was the first time in all the years he has been a fireman that such an incident occurred. He said he and his crews were called to the Howard Krause residence, 1340 E. 11th St., when gasoline used to feed a charcoal burner fire ignited. He said the call came from Mrs. Krause.

When firemen arrived, they were met by Krause who ordered them to "get out and stay out," according to the chief. Chief Wright said the fire was out on their arrival, but that he held an inspection of the premises anyway to make certain no danger existed.

Firemen were also called to the Clarence Fathery residence, on Tolletton Lane, in Perry Township Saturday at 7:46 p.m. when fire broke out on the back porch. Chief Wright said there was considerable damage from smoke, heat and water. He said arson is suspected by the owner, as this is the second time in three years the house has been hit by fire of unexplained origin. Fathery was not at home at the time of the fire.

A rubbish fire was doused at 5:38 p.m. Saturday behind 278 S. Broadway.

At 10:32 p.m. Sunday, firemen removed a refrigerator from the Lape Hotel when it started leaking gas.

ed a Senate-House conference on aid to education.

Joint action by Vice President Richard M. Nixon and House Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex.) may be needed to release the school aid bill, a political item high on the list in this campaign year.

A senate battle was indicated over another politically potent subject—medical care for elderly citizens. The Senate Finance Committee Saturday rejected the Democratic-backed idea of providing such care to all recipients of social security pensions. It voted for a limited federal-state plan of grants for medical care outside the social security system.

Moise Tshombe's secessionist regime submit to his authority. Tshombe is adamantly opposed to admitting troops from those countries.

Hammarskjold left Elisabethville Sunday and flew to Kamina, en route to Leopoldville.

In the Congo capital there was speculation Lumumba might go back to the Security Council because of Hammarskjold's refusal to use U.N. troops to override the Katanga regime's defiance of the central government's authority.

The Congo premier has persistently ignored the Security Council's injunction that U.N. forces stand aloof from the country's internal political conflicts.

STRIKES PARKED CAR

Two cars were damaged slightly Sunday at 9:38 a.m. in a sideswipe mishap in the 1200 block of E. State St.

Police report the collision occurred when a car driven by William E. Milligan, 41, of Akron went too far to the right and struck a parked car operated by Joe A. Barnes, 55, of 524 W. 6th St. Milligan told police that he was forced over by oncoming traffic.

Festival Success At Washingtonville

WASHINGTONVILLE — An estimated 1,500 persons attended the fifth annual Volunteer Firemen's Festival here Friday and Saturday at the school grounds.

Fifty units participated in the firemen's parade Friday with trophies going to the following:

New Springfield, best-equipped fire truck; Wellsville, best equipped emergency vehicle; Leetonia, oldest fire truck; Austintown, most comic vehicle; and Navarre, the truck coming the longest distance.

Prizes were awarded throughout the two evenings. Fred Dill of Columbiana won the grand prize Saturday. The main prize on Friday went to John Schaffer of Greenford.

Mrs. Tony Troy of Leetonia and Mrs. Edna Stecker of Leetonia also won awards.

Fire Chief George Boston reports that proceeds from the festival have not yet been determined. The money will be used for the erection of a new fire station here.

Kitchens, Kresge's Lose Out in State HSL Tournament

Local Class H Club Finishes As Runner-Up to Alliance CIO

Youngstown Kitchens and Kresge's fell short in their bids to capture state Hot Stove League titles for Salem.

Youngstown Kitchens of Class F dropped out in the double elimination tourney on Saturday at Lorain by losing 6-1 to Akron Kemp Brothers and 7-6 to the Lorain Medics.

Kresge's lost to Alliance CIO 2361 by a 16-4 score but came back Saturday evening to eliminate the Akron Yanks 14-5. Then on Sunday, Manager Charles E. Ryan's youngsters were edged out 4-3 by the Alliance CIO club.

The defeat left Kresge's in the runner-up spot in the state in the Class H division for boys aged 7 to 10.

Alliance CIO 2361 was the Cinderella team in the Class H tourney, having finished well down in the standings of the Alliance city league.

Youngstown Kitchens was shut out until the ninth inning of its game with powerful Akron Kemp Brothers. A walk to Catcher Clyde Stoffer, a stolen base and Hilton Moffett's single sent home a run which allowed Kitchens to avert a shutout. Kitchens collected only three hits in the game off Blount of Akron who recorded 13 strikeouts. Fourteen Akron batters went down on strikes off the offerings of Moffett and Jon Steele.

Akron was held to just four hits, including a home run and a triple by Sweitzer, the catcher. The winners tallied three runs in the fifth inning without the aid of a hit. Six walks and a fielder's choice did the damage.

Against the Lorain Medics, the Youngstown Kitchens built up a 6-1 lead in the first two innings, then sat back and watched it dwindle away. Lorain finally caught the locals with a three run outburst in the sixth inning.

After Salem scored three runs in each of the first two innings, Lorain changed pitchers and the locals were held hitless the rest of the way. Yerico pitched the last five and a third innings for Lorain, and the hefty hurler retired 12 of the last 17 Kitchens batters on strikeouts.

Jon Steele was the losing pitcher for Salem. Two infield errors by Kitchens helped let the fray slip away.

Hilton Moffett and Larry Charnesky each had two hits for the Youngstown Kitchens. One of Moffett's blows was a first inning homer with Charnesky on base. Stoffer had a triple and Moshier a single to round out Kitchens' six-hit attack.

Alliance CIO tore into Kresge's for 12 hits and 16 runs in their first meeting on Saturday. Kresge took a 1-0 lead in the top of the first but was unable to keep up the rugged pace of the Alliance sluggers.

Kresge's big threat came in the third inning when it scored three times on four hits. A single by Doug Mowery, Walt Simpson's triple, Ronnie Bezeridi's single and a double by Val Altomare produced the three runs.

Kresge's stormed back to eliminate the Akron Yanks in the second game Saturday. Altomare was the hitting star for Salem with a triple and two singles in four trips to the plate. Dave Paxson and Terry Daily had two hits apiece for Kresge's.

Pirates Trip Cards Twice; Lead by Six

By ED WILKS

Associated Press Sports Writer

For a club that's supposed to fold any day now, those Pittsburgh Pirates persistently bounce back into shape everytime they begin to bend a bit.

There was that long, five-game weekend with second-place St. Louis, for instance. The Bucs went into the showdown with a five-game lead, a seven-game bulge over Los Angeles and Milwaukee and led San Francisco's Giants by 13.

The Cards took the first two games of the set, and it looked like this might be it.

But the Bucs rebounded and packed away the last three, sweeping a double-header 9-4, as Vern Law won his 17th, and 3-2 in 11 innings Sunday. That rocketed the Pirates into a six-game lead over the Cards, and padded their bulge to eight games over the Dodgers and 14½ over the Giants.

The Braves, who whipped the Giants 3-0 on Ed Mathews' three-run homer in the first inning and Lew Burdette's five-hit pitching, alone of the so-called contenders gained any ground on the Pirates over the weekend. Milwaukee took third place and now trails by 6½.

Los Angeles stayed in fourth, splitting a twinbill at Cincinnati. The Reds won 2-0 as Cal McLish pitched his second shutout in the majors—first since 1951—but the Dodgers then rapped out a 9-5 nightcap victory. Chicago's Cubs fled the cellar and dropped Philadelphia in, sweeping the Phils 2-1 and 7-3.

Law, now within one of matching his all-time one-year victory high, gave up a dozen hits, but the Pirates backed him with 13 against loser Larry Jackson (13-10) and two relievers. Rocky Nelson drove in three runs, two with a double as the Bucs scored four runs in the third inning.

The Pirates blew a 2-0 lead in the nightcap, but finally put it away against reliever Lindy McDaniel (10-4) with a walk and singles by Bob Skinner and Don Hoak.

McLish (4-7), pitching his first complete game since May 4, allowed nine hits, but walked just one to win a duel with loser Stan Williams (12-5) ROGER Craig and Ed Roebuck.

In the second game, the Dodgers, who had 14 hits, beat reliever Joe Nuxhall (1-6) on Maury Wills' two-run single in the sixth after they had trailed 4-1.

A four-hit pitching job by Dick Ellsworth (6-8) won the opener for the Cubs. Ron Santo's second home run of the day, a sixth-inning slam, won the second game after Ernie Banks' 33rd homer had given the Cubs a 2-0 lead in the first inning.

Major League Stars

By The Associated Press

Pitching — Lew Burdette, Braves, allowed just five hits, no more than one an inning, walked but one and struck out two for 3-0 victory over the Giants.

Hitting — Luis Aparicio, White Sox, drove in six runs with four hits in eight trips in 9-2 and 7-2 sweep over the A's that hoisted Sox into tie for American League lead.

Ten of the players in this fray, including Warfield, will enter Ohio State University as freshmen next month. Buckeye Coach Woody Hayes attended the game Saturday night and saw Warfield race for 91 yards in 10 carries.

Hayes might have left the game worrying a little about Warfield's durability. The Warren flash frequently was slow getting up after being tackled and on several occasions had to be taken out of the game to recover.

Indians Lose Pair

By The Associated Press

Baltimore and the Chicago White Sox are deadlocked for the American League lead, but it's Casey Stengel who's fit to be tied.

An angry Stengel, his New York Yankees reduced to third place a half-game back after losing a double-header Sunday to the Washington Senators, sent Mickey Mantle to the showers in the sixth inning of the second game when the top-bracket center fielder failed to run out a ground ball.

The slow bouncer was converted into a double play and ended a rally by the Yanks, who had just tied it 1-1—and also had just lost slugger Roger Maris through injury.

"I took him out because he didn't run," Stengel snapped.

"I'm tired of seeing him not run. If he can't run, he should tell me and I wouldn't put him out there."

Mantle, who singled twice in seven trips for his part of the record 7-hour and 58-minute twinbill, denied that there was anything wrong with his chronically lame legs. "It wasn't my idea to come out," he said.

It was a frustrating afternoon and evening for Stengel and the Yanks, who lost the opener 5-54 on Camilo Pascual's first major league home run, a grand slam shot, then blew a ninth-inning lead and dropped the nightcap 6-3 in 15 innings.

Baltimore, after winning eight straight, lost 3-2 to Boston. That cost the Orioles a full share of first as the White Sox moved in with a 9-3 and 7-2 sweep over Kansas City. Cleveland dropped into a fourth-place tie with Washington after losing two to Detroit, 6-1 and 3-2.

The White Sox gave Billy Pierce and Early Wynn plenty of support in their sweep, swinging for 15 hits in the opener and 11 in the nightcap.

The Red Sox, who nailed two Oriole runners at the plate, blew a 2-0 lead on a two-run homer by Ron Hansen, who was 4-for-4, in the sixth. Then they cracked the tie in the seventh on a walk, Willie Tasby's single and Ted Williams' infield bouncer.

Rocky Colavito hit a home run in each game for the Tigers, but three unearned runs won the opener, and Charlie Maxwell's fifthinning home run clinched the nightcap against Cleveland.

East Palestine Tags 3-1 Loss On Merchants

East Palestine edged the Salem Merchants 3-1 in a County-City League baseball game played Sunday on the winner's home field.

East Palestine broke a 1-1 tie in the sixth inning when McGath opened the frame with a single and came home on Chaplow's solid poke down the left field line which went for a triple. Chaplow also batted in McGath with an insurance marker in the eighth.

East Palestine collected 10 hits off Salem hurler Jim McAbier, including two apiece by Woods, McGath and Chaplow.

Windy Hughes did the pitching for East Palestine, giving up seven hits.

After the home club tallied a run in the first inning on three singles, Dave Hunter tied up the game for Salem in the fourth when he drove a tremendous home run which cleared Dominic Chick's head in the right field and left the ball park. Hunter and Dick Beall each had two hits for Salem.

Jeff Roberts of Salem was thrown out of the game in the second inning by the umpire. Roberts was called out at first base on a play which brought the entire Salem team onto the field to protest that the first sacker was pulled off the bag by the throw.

The defeat left Salem with a 10-10 record for the season in County-City League play. The locals will play Lawrenceville, Pa., Tuesday in game tentatively set for Centennial Park at 6 p.m.

2 No-Hitters Tossed

Fords Cop District Softball Crown

Durable Shaffer Ford chalked up five victories in two days at Kelley Field over the weekend to capture both the Columbiana County and District Softball championships.

Shaffer's will represent this district in the state tournament at Hamilton which gets underway this week. Shaffer's first game will be 4 p.m. Friday against one of the district champs in the west central section of the state.

Two no-hitters were hurled in the District Tournament, one by Roger Wyss of Herron Transfer and the other by Ken Brudery of Shaffer Ford. Both came against Bloomingdale.

SHAFER FORD used four pitchers in its two-day, six-game marathon of softball. The local entry lost one game to Unionport on Saturday, but battled back on Sunday to cop four straight, including a pair from Unionport which brought the District championship.

Satch Altomare hurled Shaffer's to the County title on Saturday night as the Ford Dealers outlasted Herron Transfer, 8-6, in a fray which went 10 innings. Bill Herman went all the way on the mound for the losers.

Herron Transfer and Shaffer's both advanced to the District Tournament.

oger Wyss pitched his no-hitter for Herron's as the Truckers knocked off Bloomingdale in the first fray of the double elimination District Tourney. Wyss fanned 14 batters in this tilt. Two walks and a hit batsman in the first inning cost him a run.

In the third game Saturday, Unionport's Tom Dunn outdueled Bruce Feicht and Henry Miller of Shaffer Ford for a 3-1 win.

HERRON TRANSFER then bowed out of the tournament by losing to Shaffer Ford 5-2 and to Unionport 9-6.

Brudery turned in a sparkling no-hit, no-run game as Shaffer Ford smashed Bloomingdale out of the tourney, 10-0. Brudery set down 11 batters on strikes.

Altomare pitched a six-hitter for Shaffer's who handed a good Unionport team its first loss 4-3.

Then in the championship game Hank Miller and Tom Dunn hooked up in a pitchers' battle which saw Shaffer's come out on top 4-2. Shaffer's collected seven hits and Unionport only five. Dave Hiner and Jack Brudery were the hitting stars for Shaffer's, accounting for two blows apiece.

Lincoln Machine Makes Playoffs

Downs Italian Club To Grab 4th Place

Lincoln Machine defeated the Italian-American Club, 6-3, Sunday at Kelley Field in a fray which decided fourth place in the Class A Softball League.

Lincoln will now join Purity Dairy, Marks Landing and Carl's Tavern in a playoff for the Class A title.

Purity Dairy and Marks tied for first place during the regular season and will meet tonight at Kelley Field at 7:30 to determine the pairings for the playoff which is scheduled to open Tuesday night.

The loser of tonight's game will open Tuesday against Lincoln Machine. The winner tonight will start a best-of-three series on Tuesday against Carl's Tavern who finished in third place during the regular season.

A first inning homer by Bill Odorizzi helped get Lincoln Machine off to a 2-0 lead in its battle with Italian-American Club yesterday. Lincoln added three more runs in the third on a walk, a hit batsman, an error and singles by Bill Crookston and Shaffer.

Italian Club scored all its runs in the fifth frame on Jerry Menichelli's booming triple with two on. Menichelli came home on an error in the outfield.

Judge Guiler was the winning hurler. He gave up only five hits and struck out 10.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: I'm 29 and must have some kind of record for lousy luck with men.

When I was 19 I fell for a phony who strung me for three years — always promising to divorce his wife but never making good the promise. Then he suddenly quit me.

The next guy was married—only his wife was in a mental institution, HE SAID. It turned out she worked as a supervisor in the kitchen there, and he was using it as an excuse.

The next man was my brother-in-law, and the less said about this one the better. I was a sap and my sister doesn't speak to me to this day.

In May I fell in love with the chiropractor who adjusted my back. His wife called me on the phone last week and threatened me.

Why do I have such terrible luck with men, Ann? Please tell me what kind of husband to look for.—NO. 13.

Dear No. 13: Quit looking for husbands and concentrate on the single men. Your luck may improve.

Browbeaten Son

Dear Ann: The man I married is a perfectionist. He is giving our 10-year-old son such a complex I'm afraid the child will be afraid to breathe if his father doesn't stop criticizing him.

He tells the boy he does everything sloppy or wrong never a word of praise. It's always picking, ordering or shouting. He is constantly comparing Don with others in his crowd who do better. Such phrases as "I am ashamed of you," or "you're disgracing me" are common in our home.

It tears my heart out to see the hurt look in the boy's eyes when his dad says, "You're a dumb kid who will never amount to anything unless you change your ways."

Don has repeatedly asked me why his father hates him. I tell the boy his father loves him, but he has high standards and is hard to please.

Please tell me what to say to my husband. He has no idea what he's doing to his son. — WORRIED MOTHER.

Dear Worried: Tell your husband if he doesn't lay off, his son will crawl into a private world and slam the door shut for good.

Children who are made to feel they aren't "good enough" eventually refuse to compete because they've been told so often that they're dumb, lazy, stupid and can't make the grade.

Tell your husband this world has a long list of successful men whose sons withdrew from life and failed. More often than not it's because their fathers beat them down and destroyed their self-confidence when they should have been given praise and encouragement.

Friend In Need

Dear Ann: I am a girl 11 who wanted to be nice to a boy in our neighborhood who is not very well liked. My mother told me he needed somebody to be kind to him so I decided to be the one.

I really feel sorry for Norbert but I can barely stand him myself. He brags all the time and is a pest. He comes to my house every day and calls on the telephone just to talk.

Yesterday he came over at 10 in the morning and invited himself to stay for lunch. Then he tagged along with my girl friend and me when we went to the movies.

How can I get rid of him without being mean?—PESTERED.

Dear Pestered: I think it's wonderful of you to befriend Norbert but he's taking advantage of your kindness. Ask him to call you before he comes over and don't be bashful about letting him know when you have other plans.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I have always preached chastity and morality to our children so we are shocked to be confronted with this problem.

We own some rental property. Last week my husband discovered our son and his girl, both college juniors, in one of our unrented apartments. The girl was nonchalant and our son was defiant. He announced that there aren't any pure girls of marriageable age left. He also told his father that moral standards have changed in the past 25 years. He said every fellow in his fraternity has been guilty of the same and the girls are not tramps, they're from the finest sororities.

Have things changed that much? Please comment.—URBANA.

Dear Urbana: The world may have changed but human biology has been the same for centuries. When teen-agers become aware of sexual desires and urges, the battle is on.

The feeble excuse that "everybody is doing it" is a lot of eye-wash. Your son is trying to weasel off the spot by ascribing his shoddy standards of behavior to "everybody." Don't buy it.

And the notion that there are no pure girls of marriageable age left is undistilled garbage. It may be that he doesn't want to take the time or trouble to look for them but they DO exist—and I wouldn't be surprised if some of them even belonged to "the finest sororities."

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Salem News, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.
